Slow Down, Move Over (SLOMO)

Attending roadside incidents can be a risky business, and people working on the ground to clear the roads after emergency events are being unnecessarily put at risk by motorists.

It has been the law since 2 March 2018 that flashing lights on a stationary vehicle means approaching vehicles must slow down, move over (if possible) and pass at 40 kilometres per hour. Failure to comply may result in your vehicle being reported to Police and attracting a $300 fine and three (3) demerits lost.

Let's look after those who look after us.
